

The Fifty Day Count to Pentecost 2020

Calvin Lashway
April 2020

During the Feast of Unleavened Bread, we begin preparing for the next festival, the Feast of Weeks, known in The New Testament as Pentecost. We have not yet finished one festival, before we begin preparing for the next one.

Of all the festivals mentioned in Leviticus 23 and Deuteronomy 16, this is the only one that doesn't have a specific calendar date. Pentecost is determined by counting a certain number of days, with the last day being the festival. We begin this count on the Sunday, "the day after the Sabbath" (Leviticus 23:9-16) that falls within the week of the Feast of Unleavened Bread. The most popular name for this festival in the Bible is the "Feast of Weeks," (Exodus 34:22; Deuteronomy 16:10, 16; Numbers 28:26; 2 Chronicles 8:12-13), because calculating the date of the festival involves counting seven weeks or Sabbaths, from the day of the wave sheaf offering.

The exact date on the calendar may vary from year to year, but the feast day is always a Sunday. Although the old covenant sacrificial system has ceased, as Christians we continue to observe the Feast of Weeks. Still determining the count from the day of the wave sheaf offering by ancient Israel.

The following is a list of readings from the Acts of the Apostles to be read during the fifty-day count to Pentecost. This year the readings focus on the Sermons and Messages given by the Apostles, and other Christians in the early Church. Over the coming seven weeks, meditate on what the Apostles and other teachers like Stephen, Philip, Priscilla, Aquila, and Apollos, taught believers and unbelievers. And how we can apply this information to our lives.

Counting to Pentecost

1st Day - April 12, Wave Sheaf Sunday

On the Sunday occurring during the Feast of Unleavened Bread, the Israelites made a special offering called the wave sheaf. On this day, the high priest would wave a sheaf of the firstfruits of the barley harvest before God. This was the first sheaf of grain harvested during the spring harvest season (Leviticus 23:9-14).

On the morning of the wave sheaf offering, the Sunday following Jesus' death, during the Feast of Unleavened Bread. Mary Magdalene came to Jesus' tomb and found it empty (John 20:1-2). Jesus had already risen and left his tomb before the close of the weekly Sabbath.

Sometime later on Sunday, Jesus appears to Mary who was the first individual Jesus showed himself to after his resurrection (Mark 16:9). In her excitement at seeing Jesus, Mary reaches out to hug him. But, Jesus tells her not to touch him because he hadn't yet ascended to the Father in heaven (John 20:11-18). After Jesus' meeting with Mary Magdalene, he appears to the other women who had gone to the tomb with her (Mark 16:1-2; Luke 23:55-24:1), allowing them to touch him (Matthew 28:5, 8-9).

This shows that sometime between Jesus' meeting with Mary (John 20:17) and the meeting with the other women (Matthew 28:9), he ascended to the Father in heaven. All this happened on the day of the wave sheaf offering, during the Feast of Unleavened Bread. On the same day, the High Priest waved a sheaf of firstfruits before God. The risen Jesus, ascended to heaven as the first person resurrected to eternal life. Jesus is the firstfruits of those resurrected from the dead, with those belonging to him resurrected at his second coming (1 Corinthians 15:20-23; Acts 26:22-23; Colossians 1:18).

As the Passover lamb represents the slain Jesus. The wave sheaf offering represents the resurrected Jesus rising to heaven, as the firstfruits of many more that will one day also rise from the dead. Wave Sheaf Sunday doesn't picture Jesus' resurrection, but his ascension to heaven.

The fifty day or seven-week count to Pentecost begins on this day, the day after the Sabbath (which is Sunday) that falls during the Days of Unleavened Bread.
